RV Parks and Campgrounds Industry COVID-19 Resources

In response to the global COVID-19 pandemic, shelter-in-place orders and physical distancing measures have affected many businesses. Here is a look at the impact to the campgrounds and RV parks industry.

During the beginning stages of the COVID-19 pandemic, campgrounds and RV parks that rely on national park visitors for revenue were at a loss when the National Park Service issued park closures nationwide. However, it is projected that the decrease in outdoor activity will be short-lived as frequent campers and non-campers express interest in camping once restrictions are lifted, according to the 2020 North American Camping Report by KOA. In fact, the pandemic has led many people to participate more in outdoor recreation than before, leading to surge in camping among other outdoor activities. Moreover, RV camping may be considered the safest form of travel compared to other accommodations such as hotels. Indeed, COVID-19 is causing a boom of sorts in the RV industry with RV shipments up 54% in July over 2019.

RV Parks and Campgrounds Industry Overview & Trends

NAICS Code: 721211; SIC Code: 7033

This RV Parks Industry market research report excerpt is from First Research, which also sells a full version of this report.

- "Companies in this industry operate facilities to accommodate campers using tents, travel trailers, and recreational vehicles (RVs). Major companies include Kampgrounds of America (KOA) and Thousand Trails (both based in the US), as well as Discovery Holiday Parks (Australia); Siblu (France); and the UK-based Camping and Caravanning Club, Park Resorts, and Parkdean Holiday Parks.
- Outside the US, RV camping (or caravanning, as it is often called in Europe) is popular in countries such as the UK, Australia, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, and Spain. RVs are growing in popularity in China as consumers spend more on vacations and leisure activities. The US recreational vehicle parks industry includes about 4,400 RV parks and campgrounds with combined annual revenue of about $2.8 billion.
- COMPETITIVE LANDSCAPE: Demand is driven by personal income and tourist travel. The profitability of individual campgrounds depends on site occupancy rate and effective marketing. Large campgrounds have advantages in diversity of site offerings and amenities. Small campgrounds can compete effectively by marketing to their target demographic and by obtaining desirable locations. The US RV parks and campgrounds industry is fragmented: the 50 largest companies account for about 25% of industry revenue. Most RV park operators are privately held, single-location companies.
- PRODUCTS, OPERATIONS & TECHNOLOGY: Campground rentals and other accommodations account for about 80% of industry revenue; other sources of revenue include membership fees (5%); and sales of food and beverages (4%)."

- “Pay: The median annual wage for lodging managers was $54,430 in May 2019. The median wage is the wage at which half the workers in an occupation earned more than that amount and half earned less. The lowest 10 percent earned less than $31,380, and the highest 10 percent earned more than $105,720. Most lodging managers work full time.
- Work Environment: Lodging managers held about 57,200 jobs in 2019. The pressures of coordinating a wide range of activities, turning a profit for investors, and dealing with dissatisfied guests can be stressful.
- Job Outlook: Employment of lodging managers is projected to decline 12 percent from 2019 to 2029. Stays in traditional lodging establishments have been declining as short-term rentals have risen and offered competition. Both leisure and business traveler bookings at hotels and bed-and-breakfast establishments have declined due to the increase in available options offered by online booking sites, which make it easier for individuals to rent out their space. This is expected to result in decreased demand for lodging managers.”
